

A B S T R A C T

ar

Suba2

A pull-on disposable diaper are provided in parallel to transversely opposite side edges of a diaper in its rear waist region with fastening tape stripes adapted to hold the diaper in its rolled up state for disposable after the diaper has been used, each of the tape strips including longitudinally opposite end regions firmly bonded to respective peripheral edges of a waist-opening and leg-openings and an intermediate region extending between the longitudinally opposite end regions of the fastening tape strip and defining on its inner surface an adhesive region adapted to be separably bonded to the outer surface of the diaper rolled up for disposal.